Mr. L. M. Hill, who planted eights acres in cotton last year, has only forty this year, and his corn and grain crop has been increased accordingly. The same can be said of nearly every large planter in the county, and a supply of breadstuffs sufficient to furnish the county is almost certain this fall. A great deal of attention is being paid to diversification, and small truck and fruits will be a most important part of the farmers' crop in a short time, if the price of cotton remains at such ruinously low prices.

The fruit crop will be the largest known for years, and the peach trees are breaking down with their burdens, and all other varieties equally as heavy. This year will be long remembered as one of the fruit and crop years in the history of the county. The Central's General Preight Agent Dropped Suddenly.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 30.—The platform to be presented in tomorrow's convention is a conservative one in its tone, while not lacking directness upon many of the issues touched. The democratic party will be announced through the platform as retaining unshaken confidence in the ability and integrity of Grover Cleveland and to his devotion to public duty. He will be declared to be the choice of an overwhelming majority of New York, and the country at least may rely confidently upon his ability to carry that state in November.

The statement will be made that the convention recognizes the fact that other states and other democrats have the same right to their views as those whose utterance this platform will be. No man or men, because displeased with the nomination, according to the resolutions, has the right to thwart the desires of the people. The wishes of the majority of the party should prevail.

RESIGNATION ASKED FOR

No Explanation Given by His Su perior Officials,

WINBURN WILL BE HIS SUCCESSOR

The Major's Friends Suggest That He Wa Retired Because He Served the Richmond and Danville.

Savannah, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)-Major George A. Whitehead serves his last day as general frieght agent of the Central railroad system tomorrow. On Wednesday he retires from the office he has held for the past twelve years. He will be succeeded by Mr. W. A. Winburn, an unknown factor in railroads here abouts, who has been filling the position of chief clerk for Major Shellman, the Central's traffic manager. Major White head's retirement is the surprise and ser sation of the day. It came as unexpected-ly to him as it did to the general public Last night he had not the slightest inti-mation that his services were not of the most satisfactory character, or that his relations with the company he has served so long would not continue for many more years. This morning he found awaiting him a note from Traffic Manager Shellman. It was decidedly to the point, simply asking for his resignation to take effect June 1st, and informed him that Mr. Winburn would be appointed to the office on that date. Major Whitehead could merely express his surprise at this action of his superior official when seen by The Constitution's correspondent to "No cause whatever was ascribed for this step," said he, "and I do not know to what to ascribe it. There have been no complaints made to me of any inefficiency on my part, and the decision to remove was evidently but recently arrived at. It has been but a few days since it was announced that Mr. Winburn was to become general passenger agent. I do not care to criticise the action of the other officials, but such short notice with out any explanation, is certainly a somewhat strange method of handling an official.

Traffic Manager Shellman and President Comer were not inclined to discuss the forced resignation. The former said that Winburn, in his opinion, is a most compe tent rate man. Major Whitehead's resignation was asked for so summarily in order that Winburn may have time to stom himself to the business of the office before the fall traffic sets in. Major Whitehead's salary continues until July. Winburn's chief experience seems to have been as division freight and passenger agent of the Richmond and Danville at Asheville. He went from the Richmond and Danville to the Central, and was dropped by the Danville when He became Major Shellman's chief clerk at Columbus a few months ago. Major Shellman brought him from that city to Colonel Mercer left tonight for Atlanta to make his report to the proper authorities of the week's work in camp. He is greatly pleased with what has been accomplished, and will so report. There was no dress Savannah. The friends of Major Whitehead feel extremely sore over the manner in which he has been treated. He has been with the Central over twenty years. On June 1, 1882, he was appointed general freight and passenger agent. Seven years later this office was divided, Major Whitehead retaining the general freight agency. Many assert that it is the intention of the present management to drop all officials who held over under the Richmond and Danville management; but Major Shell-man emphatically denies this. On Wednesday the office of superintendent of motive power will also be abolished and Mr. Gibbs, the present occupant, will also be out of the Central's employ. The work of this office, it is said, will be divided among the superintendents and master mechanics.

Rochester, N. Y., May 30.—Today will ever a memorable day in the history of Rochester. Never before has the city been so crowded and never before has it entertained such distinguished company. Public and private business was suspended and everybody took a holiday. It is estimated that fully 250,000 people took an active part in the various demonstrations. Of this number fully 100,000 came from the surrounding country. The president was enthusiastically received everywhere and was compelled to bow his acknowledgements to almost continuous cheering. The weather was bright and fair. The feature of the day was the dedication of the handsome monument in Washington square in honor of the soldiers and sailors of Monroe county, who died in defense of their country. Speeches were made by President Harrison and Governor Flower. On the same day Superintendent Daniel Curran goes from Macon to Columbus. where division headquarters will be re-established. Superintendent Epperson is transferred from Augusta to Macon, and Trainmaster T. S. Morse, now at Macon. will succeed Epperson in Augusta. In a day or two the office of general Bishopville, S. C., May 30.—(Special.)—A sensational horsewhipping occurred at this place last night. Mr. E. Cardareli was waylaid and severely beaten with buggy whips at about 8 o'clock, while on his way to church. His assailants were Messrs. John and Frank Morrisey, who, Cardareli says, first lassoed him with a stout rope and then beat him. His cries brought assistance, and the Morriseys ran off before the police arrived to arrest them.

Cardareli was badly bruised, and is confined to his bed. For personal reasons, the injured party refused to take out warrants for the two Morriseys. It is reported that the cause of the affair was that Cardareli had been too intimate with a sister of the Morrisey boys.

ing to economy and better service. THE OPINION HERE.

Traffic Men Have a Theory of Their Own

About Mayor Whitehead.

The news of Major Whitehead's removal came unexpectedly to the railroad men in this city. He is well known to the traffic men all over the country and all entertain the highest esteem for him as a gentleman. No one has borne a higher reputation for integrity. His retainment by the Richmond and Danville was a surprise. His removal was attributed yesterday to the probable fact that he has been friendly to the Richmond and Danville.

Mr. Sam Spencer, representing Drexel, Morgan & Co., has started on a trip of inspection over the properties of the Richmond Terminal. He will fully ex-amine their physical condition and study the resources of the territory which they tnp.

It was thought that he would come down over the Richmond and Danville first, but a telegram from New York says that he has gone to Cincimnati and will first inspect the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia. Then he will inspect the Georgia Pacific and come to Atlanta from Birmingham. President Oakman, of the Terminal, the Danville and the Rast Tennessee, is along with Mr. Spencer. They will be joined by one or more officials of each system as they inspect it. Vice President Feiton and General Manager Hudson, of the East Tennessee, will go over a part or all of that system with over a part or all of that system with them, and General Manager Green, of the Richmond and Danville, will accompany them over the lines in his charge.

As is pretty well understood by this time, Mr. Spencer is the railroad expert of Drexel, Morgan & Co., the great bankers. This house handles the securities of such corporations as those in the Vanderbilt system, the Huntington enterprises, the Philadelphia and Reading and until recently those of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Railroad Company.

The report is out in the north that s rupture has occurred between the Drexels and the Pennsylvania. This is attributed partly to Drexel, Mongan & Co.'s friend-liness for the Reading, whose bonds the firm has been negotiating. This firm's interest in the Terminal is significant and adds color to that report of the alliance between the Reading and the Terminal

If Drexel, Morgan & Co. carry out the reorganization successfully the Reading and the Terminal will be largely controlled by the same parties. There is another interest in the Terminal about which the public knows nothing and that is held by ome one very close to the Vanderbilts. The reorganization problem is attracting general attention in financial circles north and south. New York's capitalists have a great deal more faith in the success of Drexel, Morgan & Co. than they had in any one else. The ablest financial mad in any one else. The ablest mancial writer on the New York daily press, says in Sunday's Times: 'Terastic remedies are needed," which is excelly what Sunday's Constitution remarks. Reviewing the Terminal's stuation, he writer in The Times predicts that if Mr. Morgan takes hold of that system he will put the knife in deep. He states that "a sectionalis in deep. He states that "a receivership is the first thing probable." Persuasions to agree to a plan of reorganization have been tried and failed and there is a preva-

to agree to a plan of reorganization have been tried and failed and there is a prevalent opinion that "foreclosure is a case of must." Drexel, Morgan & Co. demand large compensation for a work of this kind. They come high; but they have been appealed to and the Terminal's security holders seem willing to pay almost any price to get help. The Times alludes to General Thomas's plan rather tartly, saying that he "set himself up as a leader in the failure of the Olcott plan, and announced a new one apparently of his own concoction, one feature of which was that the East Tennessee road was to be left out. He would deal with that himself. In ten days it appeared that the general could not get a carporal's gnard to follow him. The security holders would have none of him. They had had too much already. And the general actually appeared at the head of the humiliating procession to the house at the corner of Broad and Wall, with confession of impotency and appeal for help."

There is considerable curiosity here in Atlanta to know how General Thomas stands in regard to the East Tennessee being reorganizing the East Tennessee. He is perfectly willing for the Richmond and Danville to be rehabilitated, but there is a strong suspicion that he feels differently in regard to his pet. He is a great financier himself, and if the East Tennessee is not too deeply entangled in the Terminal's web of trouble, it is generally conceded that Ecould handle it.

In the Olcott plan nearly four millions of dollars were to be set apart for the expenses of reorganization. Drexel, Morgan & Co. will want nearer $10,000,000, it is thought.

A gentleman who has had years of experience in connection with financing railreads.

A gentleman who has had years of experience in connection with financing railroads, says: "The greater the system, the easier it is to induce capital to take hold of the se says: "The greater the system, the easier it is to induce capital to take hold of the securities. European financiers would take the securities of a great consolidated system, such as the Danville and the East Tennessee combined, when they would have nothing to do with the securities of small component parts of the system: Drexel, Morgan & Co., would take hold of a system involving tens of millions, when they would not of one involving only millions.

"The Richmond and Danville and the East Tennessee properly handled should have no trouble in paying their operating expenses and fixed charges. The Danville comes down along the castern edge of the Blue Ridge and the Tennessee skirts the western edge, thus commanding the immense mineral wealth hid in the bosom of these mountains. Both of these roads lead into Atlanta, which will be the Chicago of the south. The East Tennessee has a spur reaching down to the coast at Brunswick and westward to Chattanooga and Knoxville, with its line northward from Chattanooga to Cincinnati and southward to Birmingham. The Danville goes into the heart of Alabama's mineral fields and on to the Mississippi, though that branch should have gone to Memphis instead of Greenville, Consolidate those two systems into one, make them quit cutting each other's throat and they will pay fixed charges on fair mileage with any sort of good management.

"Atlanta would be the natural head-

"Atlanta would be the natural head-quarters for such a combined system, too." NO CENTRAL DIVIDEND.

The Directors Meet Today and Have Impor tant Business to Transact.

tant Business to Transact.

The Central railroad's directors will meet in Savannah today. This is the meeting at which the June dividend is usually declared, but none will be declared today on Central stock. This will be the first time the Central has passed a dividend in eleven years. In 1881, after a lapse of several years, Colonel Wadley's board declared a 40 per cent dividend. Prior to that, though, the Central had long been a non-dividend power and its stock was down to thirty or less. When that 40 per cent dividend was declared the stock boomed and ran up to 180, and then it dropped back so fast that many could not sell out until they had lost fortunes.

Under Captain Raoul's administration the Central paid 4 per cent a year up to December, 1886, when a 4 per cent semi-annual was declared. That was at the close of the New York syndicate's campaign and in the face of a resolution passed at the meeting of the directors in the preceding June, when they stated that the Central could not possibly pay more than 4 per cent a year. In that June, 1886, Central stock was about 65 per cent, which was not so very much higher than it is now, though in the hands of receivers. The New York syndicate ran the price of Central stock up to $135 a share, and the Georgia holders who sold out averaged fifty to fifty-five dollars per share more than the selling price when the June dividend was declared.

An Atlantian who has been closely connected with the Central for a number of years remarked yesterday that the road has been paying dividends just about as many years as it lapsed prior to 1881, and he addee that he hoped the coincidence would not be repeated.

The Central has $36,000 interest to pay tomorrow on the Augusta and Savannah road, and on June 20th it will have to pay the Southwestern $175,000 interest. All of this is said to be in hand, or will be when it is due.

made when the Richmond and Danville stopped operating it. The Savannah News Indimates that the people there will be disappointed if the comparison shows that the Danville returned everything it found.

Mr. S. M. Williams, second vice president of the Jersey Central railroad, is making a thorough examination of the accounts of the Central and the Richmond and Danville during the operation of the former by the latter.

London Yesterday,

BETWEEN SLAVIN AND PETER JACKSON Slavin Made Powerful Lunges at Jackso but He Beceived Stinging Blows Each Time.

London, May 30.-Peter Jackson, the colored pugilist, whipped Jim Slavin in ten, rounds today. It was a complete knock out. Slavin was the favorite in the betting at all sorts of odds, heavy amounts being up at five to two. It was ten minutes after 11 o'clock when Jackson and Slavin made their appearance in the ring to begin the fight

In the first round Jackson led off with light tan on Slavin's body. Prolonged sparring then ensued. Slavin did not force the fighting at as great a rate as had been expected of him. Jackson; though he did not hit him with much force, kept his long left arm constantly in Slavin's face. Twice Slavin clinched and was ordered by the referee to break away. He then tried to land his right on Jackson, but the latter sprang away and the round ended very evenly. Second round-The instant time was called Slavin made a savage rush at his antagonist, as though he intended to annihilate him, but Jackson always had his long left arm in Slavin's face. Three times Slavin rushed to close quarters with the same futile result. Jackson then forced the fighting and drove his left and right in quick succession in Slavin's body. Slavin appeared to be tiring as the round

Third round—The round opened amid intense excitement. Jackson kept prod-ding Slavin in the mouth and left eye and the eye began to show signs of closing. Slavin kept rushing in, but try as he would he always failed to land his dan-gerous right on his antagonist. In the last minute of the round, a splendid rally occurred when Slavin hit harder and Jackson struck more frequently. Both were hard at work when time was called. were nard at work when time was called. Many bets were won and lost at this stage of the contest as many wagers had been made that the fight would not last three rounds.

Fourth round—After the call of time

Slavin was the first to get to work. Jack-son seemed to have already taken his rival's measure. Every time Slavin rushed in he met the negro's left, Jackson having a shade best of the exchange.

Fifth round—Both men started in and fought the round at a terrific pace, each doing his utmost to win.

"Sixth round—Slavin worked Jackson into a corner and landed two heavy blows on his ribs. The negro jumped out and landed a swinging left and right on Slavin's head.

Seventh round—Jackson, time after ime, banged his left in Slavin's face and before the round was half over Slavin's left eye was nearly closed.

Eighth round—Jackson was now sweat than his opponent. Jackson was now sweat-than his opponent. Jackson again bang-ed away at Slavin for all he was worth, and had the best of the round at the finish, odds of six to four being laid on him at the close. Ninth round—Slavin made a grand effort to keep on equal terms with Jack son, but received several more stinging left hand blows on the mouth and eye Jackson was shooting his right with great effect and had the best of the mill, when the two men were ordered to their cor ners.

Tenth round—Slavin came up very game, but he was weaker than he looked. After a few exchanges, Jackson landed a swinging right hander along on Slavin's throat, sending him against the ropes. Before Jackson was able to recover, Jackson was on him with both hands. Slavin became dazed from the effects of this terrible punishment. The negro fought him all around the ring and succeeded in knocking him out in the first two minutes of the round. Jackson was then declared the victo Jackson was then declared the victor amid terrific cheering. Jackson tipped the scales at 196 and Slavin at 185 pounds. Jackson's seconds were "Parson" Davies, Joe Choynski and Jem Young. Slavin's seconds were his brother, Jack, Tom Williams and Tom Burrows. Mr. Angle was referee. All arrangements for the fight were admirable and the contest was the finest seen in a long time.

THE DRILL LAST NIGHT. A Large Crowd Went Out-Other Drills to

A large crowd filled the grand stand last sprinkling of ladies present, as was indi-cated by the display of summer dresses and the lively flutter of white fans.

But they failed to witness the drill as they expected.

It was not because the companies failed to put in their appearance, but because there was something the matter with the

there was something the matter with the lights.

The crowd waited patiently for some time, but it finally grew evident that the light was not coming, and the number of fans grew perceptibly less and less, until the grand stand was almost literally deserted of its occupants.

The boys were greatly disappointed. Nevertheless, in spite of the adverse circumstances, the battalion went through its evolutions in the dark, and carried out the full order of exercises.

The battalion expects to drill every Friday and Monday night until the 14th of June, and, if the good weather continues, they will drill at the park four more times before they set out for the encampment.

The battalion last night was unusually full, each of the four companies being present with a goodly number of men. The boys are thoroughly in earnest, and the people of Atlanta should give them their hearty encouragement.

The next drill will occur Friday night, and the difficulty that prevented the crowd from seeing the drill last evening will then be removed.

A PARTY OF TEACHERS

Arrived in Atlanta Last Night from Charlotte, N. C.

A party of teachers arrived in Atlanta last night from Charlotte, N. C.

They came for the purpose of inspecting Atlanta's educational system, and will spend the greater part of the week going the rounds of the public schools.

The party is accompanied by Captain T. T. Smith, a former citizen and railroad official of Atlanta, who made his home in Charlotte a few years ago, and was subsequently elected school commissioner and a member of the board of education. He admires the public school system of Atlanta, and considers it ahead of any city in the country in the line of progressive and systematic education.

The Atlanta teachers will, no doubt, take pleasure in showing the party the result of their efficient work, and in explaining to them their methods of teaching the "young idea how to shoot."

The party is made up principally of lady teachers, and the following is a full list: Misses Laurs Orr, Lucy Alexander, Mary Clarkson, Estelle Duls, Charlee Hutchison, Mary Wiley, Laura Grimes, Julia Roberts, Emma Vogel, Mary Graham, Lillie Jamison, Sallie Bethune, Lillie Durham, Mattie Harris, Kate Harris, Mrs. Josie Durant, Mr. M. H. Thompson and Superintendent of Public Schools Alex Graham.

A party of Atlanta friends went up the road and accompanied the delegation for a few miles to the city.

Their stay in Atlants will, no doubt, be pleasant and satisfactory, and they will go back to Charlotte with a good many improvements to make in their schools.

Birmingham, Ala., May 30—The state labor conference met in Birmingham this morning. It was called by President Adams, of the Farmers' Alliance, to consider the St. Louis platform and was composed of delegates from the alliance and other organizations. Forty-seven counties were represented by about fifty-three delegates. President Adams in his opening speech expressly declared that the conference would have nothing to do with politics one way or the other. After completing an organization, the St. Louis platform was discussed and adopted by practical unanimity and the conference adjourned.

A FIGHT IN NEWBERRY'S STREETS

Dr. Pope and Colonel Ellison Keitt Have a "Scrap."

WHAT CAUSED THE DIFFICULTY.

Little Paragraph in a Newspaper, Which Dr. Pope Thought Was a Reflection on Him.

Newberry, S. C., May 30.—(Special.)—A consational fight occurred here today. It is thought that fatal results may follow. Both of the combatants are among the most prominent men in the state. Dr. Samson Pope, one of the parties, is a caudidate for congress from the third district, and Colonel Ellison Keitt, the other, is the leader of the hird party in South Carolina. Dr. Pope third party in South Carolina. Dr. Pope broke a walking cane over Colonel Keitt's head. The origin of the fuss seems to have been the following paragraph, which appeared in a local paper over the signature of Colonel Keitt, which Dr. Pope had reason to believe was intended for firm:

Of that vast number it would be curious to know how many of the Tillman gang who are pre-eminently "in favor of revense only," were in the work. One at least who is loud in their counsels, the first fight his company was in, he lit out and left. He lifted his feet so fast that a bullet could not catch him. He made straight for the hospital and yellow flag and never lessened his speed until he got safely within the walls of one and under the folds of the other. He could never be induced to return to his command. The end of the war found him under the yellow flag attending to the sick and wounded in a asseplace. He is now in congenial company.

Colonel Keitt was formerly a strong Tillmanite, but when the dominant element remanite, but when the dominant element re-fused to send him to the senate in the place of Wade Hampton he turned against them and has been exceedingly bitter ever since. As Keitt has a son who is a candidate for congress against Pope, it is thought that the Pope in the race. Dr. Pope was fined $10 by Mayor Blalock. As both parties are courageous and hot-headed, it is thought the affair will terminate in a shooting af-

THIRD PARTY CONVENTION.

A Meeting at Canton Last Saturday to Nom-

Yesterday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, while the big force of hands was hard at work on Penchtree street, one of the big walls of dirt suddenly gave way and caved in. The falling bank of dirt was just above where the men were working, and, when the noise of it giving way reached their ears, there was a grand rush to get from beneath it.

It came down with a crash, and two men, who were not swift enough to run from under it, were buried beneath the mass of falling earth. One of them was a new hand. Horrified at the accident, the men rushed back and began working to rescue the two unfortunate men. A few minutes' work brought the bedies to light. But one of them was dead—the unknown negro. Both arms and legs of the other negro were broken, and he was bruised up in the most frightful mianner.

Two other men were badly hurt by the falling dirt, and had to be taken home.

The dead man was taken to Howard's undertaking establishment, where the remains still are. An inquest will be held today.

One of the other negroes will, in all probability, die.

A Meeting at Canton Last Saturday to Nominate Delegates.

Canton, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Pursuant to a call made last month the third party of Cherokee met here Saturday and selected delegates to the ninh district congression. Which meets in Gainesville June Sth, to vote for delegates to the Omahs presidential convention, to be held July 4th, to nominate third party candidates for president and vice president. The third July 4th, to nominate third party candidates for president and vice p

Then came the nominations for senator and representative. Although this meeting was primarily called for this purpose, yet several wanted to postpone nomination. During dinner hour there had been much juggling among the several aspirants.

much juggling among the several aspirants.

At the afternoon session an effort was made to defer, but it did not succeed and nominations were declared in order. For senator only W. H. Perkinson, of Woodstock, was presented and he was unanimously nominated. For representative only Thomas Bell, a good and honest farmer and a citizen of Mullins district, was nominated. He was also nominated unanimously. Perkinson is sick and could not be here, but it is generally understood that "Barkis is willing." Mr. Bell was present and said it was decidedly against his personal feelings to accept, but as the candidates and their friends and the party seemed to center upon him he would accept and stand square upon the present and future third party platforms. A committee was appointed to notify Captain Perkinson. There were not exceeding one hundred and fifty third party men here, but the they were pretty enthusiastic. But watch the democrats roll up a majority just the same from Cherokee. They meet here the first Monday in June.

Dr. Whiteley reiterates his charges, declaring that Mr. Post knows no God, does not regard the Sabbath, denounces the churches, and "who will lie to suit his interest." Dr. Whiteley says that "Mr. Baggett, a somewhat new resident of Douglasville, and a strong third party man," circulated a petition asking Mr. and Mrs. Post to return. "A few signed it; a great many refused. Another petition was gotten out, asking you to return to Chicago. At this juncture the first petition disappeared from Douglasville, and we thought it had been withdrawn." Dr. Whiteley closes by saying that he proposes to meet Mr. Post and substantiate his charges.

The closing exercises of the Girls' High school will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of this week. Dr. W. F. Richardson Wore Crape When Barnes's Sister

Milledgeville, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—
On account of the prominence of the two young men, the shooting between Messrs. Willie Barnes and Charley Richardson, at Scottsboro, four miles below here, on yesterday afternoon, has caused quite a sensation in the city and is the all-absorbing topic of conversation. The Barneses and Richardsons are pear neighbors, and as far as can be learned, have always been on the best of terms and the difficulty is deeply deplored by the members of both families.

The particulars as brought to Milledge-families.

The particulars as brought to Milledgeville this morning are about as follows:
Richardson was suitor for the hand of Miss Barnes, but they recently broke off all engagements and on Saturday she became the wife of a Mr. Brewer. In humoring the joke Richardson went to the extreme of putting a piece of crape on his hat and it seems made some remarks that offended the brother, who went to Lingold's chanel vesterday afternoon, and Lingold's chapel yesterday afternoon, and called Richardson out from Sunday school. The parties went off a few steps together and became engaged in a heated conversation, when one of them exclaimed, "We sation, when one of them exclaimed, "We will settle the matter now."

At this juncture Barnes hit Richardson with a stick. Both parties then pulled pistols and fired three shots each. Two balls struck Barnes, one in the body and one in the arm. Richardson was shot once in the side. Barnes, it is thought, cannot live, while slight hopes are entertained for Rchardson. All that loving hands can do is being done for the wounded ones.

Bill Callaway, the negro convicted of arson and sentenced to eleven years in the penitentiary, who with six other prisoners broke jail and escaped a few weeks since, was re-captured by Mr. R. D. Callaway on his place five miles from this place yesterday. His capture means that five of the fugitives will be caught, as Bill has told the officers of their whereabouts. He also implicated three negroes, who assisted them in making their escape, one of whom is now under arrest and the others will soon be incarcerated in the jail they helped to break.

ROSENBERG IS AGAIN MAD And Attempts to Kill His Old Clerk, but

Birmingham, Ala., May 30.—(Special.)—About 2 o'clock this morning F. S. Rosenberg, a man about thirty-five years old, drove up to the residence of D. Shapiro and sent the hackman in to call Shapiro out to see Robert Stone. Rosenberg remained in the carriage and when Shapiro appeared he opened fire through the carriage window with a forty-four Smith & Wesson pistol. Shapiro dodged to the ground and Rosenberg emptied his weapon at him, though not a single bullet took effect. It seems that Rosenberg was recently in business with Stone at a mining camp near here and they fell out. Shapiro had been a clerk and Rosenberg charged up to him his misfortune in business. When arrested, Rosenberg declared to the officers that he had killed three men who are supposed to have been Shapiro, Stone and the Lawyer Nabers who fixed up the papers when he lost his business. Rosenberg was once in an asylum and business misfortunes have evidently rattled him again.

A NICKEL CAUSED IT.

Park Lewis Kills Nelson Clayton in Hancock County.

Sparta, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Park Lewis shot and killed Nelson Clayton yesterday morning at John Bayer's plantation in this county. Both are negroes. The difficulty occurred about a nickel, which the deceased owed the slayer. Park demanded that he should pay him 25 cents. The evidence at the coroner's investigation showed that Nelson admitted owing a nickel and offered to pay that amount, but Park said he must pay his demand or he would shoot him. He executed his threat and death ended from the pistol wound in a very short while. The coroner's jury pronounced the killing murder, and the sheriff is hunting Park, who is attempting to make his escape.

Fort Valley, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—The first shipment of Georgia peaches was made by express from here today. N. Dietzen & Bro. shipped two crates and George T. Jones one. Aside from their excellence there is economy in as they are the most natural flavors made, and in strength, quality and quantity, there are no Flavoring Extracts that can compare with them. It is not economy to buy the Flavoring Extracts in the market because they are sold at a low price. Cheapness is an indication of inferiority. Shota Colored Woman.

Margaret Freeman, a colored woman seven miles from Augusta on the Augusta and Knoxville railroad, came to the city this morning and complained of having been mysteriously shot. She was working in her garden last evening when the Augusta and Knoxville picayune train from Augusta came along. She was standing watching the train as it stood on the track. While gazing upon the people on the cars some one poked a pistol through a window and fired upon her. The bullet struck the negress in the side about the hip. She says the conductor and others on the train were questioned, but gave no satisfactory information as to the party who willfully wounded her. The old where is here in the side about the hip. the melon crop is the poorest ever known in this section, and that the crop will be unusually late and the fruit scarce.

The vines, on account of the continued dry weather, are small, and, while some have an overproduction of small fruit, others have failed to fruit at all. Those vines having a large number of melons are insufficient, on account of their size, to mature melons weighing anything like those usually shipped from this point.

Yesterday, in conversation with four prominent growers of this county, the question was asked: "How many melons can you ship on the 10th of June?" One, who had forty acres, thought that he could get two hundred; another, who had twenty acres, thought that if he shipped one on the 10th the would do well; the third who spoke had no fruit which promised anything for the 10th; the fourth had no fruit on his vines above the size of an egg.

The general crop prospect is not good. Corn and cotton can stand the dry weather for some days yet, but, if rain does not come soon, the entire truck crop will be badly injured.

A Circular Distributed in Early County for a Meeting.

Blakely, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—To the supprise of a great many the third party is developing considerable strength in Early county. It is estimated by some that it now has 150 or more supporters. The following is a copy of a hand bill gotten out today for circulation:

"Notice—The citizens of Early county will meet at Blakely. June 15, 1892, to organize the people's party. All persons friendly to the cause are invited to attend the meeting with full baskets.

"At the same time delegates will be selected to the various conventions. Speakers will be on hand for the meeting."

Signed by J. J. King, Y. T. Urquhart, J. C. Candler.

We fear it will be a sad day for the south when the third party issue triumphs. Could not Chairman Atkinson lend us his presence and voice in this section awhile to show our erring brothers the falsity of their doctrines?

Cotton Chopping Time.

Burwell, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Cotton chopping is in order just now, and the stand is unusually good. It is claimed by those in position to know, that there is from 20 to 25 per cent decrease in acreage in the cotton in the western part of this county, and more than a corresponding increase in corn and other crops. It is also said that the same thing holds good across the line in Alabama. The present crop will be the cheapest that has been raised in many years.

THE GREEN-GOODS MEN of the "Tigers."

Circulars.

Savannah, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—The New York green-goods men are trying to do business in Savannah and hereabouts.

They have changed their tactics here of late, but they are the same old bunco boys.

Savannah is now being flooded with green-goods literature. Mr. James D. Curtis, who has recently started in business at St. Julian and Whitaker streets, received a letter from the bunco fellows in his mail this morning, and it is known that other gentlemen have been receiving such letters of late.

The letter to Mr. Curtis bears a New York date, starts out with a "Dear Sir," and says:

"I am going to make you an offer, and if you are willing to accept you can make a fortune for yourself in a short time. The goods are in one's, two's, five's and ten's, United States treasury notes. Do you understand? The enclosed newspaper slip will show you how good the public considers the goods to be, also how easily the government experts take them for the genuine article. There is only one way, however, that you can become a customer of mine. You must meet me in one of the small villages near New York city, for my experience has taught me that in order to carry on this business in safety to you as well as myself we must meet face to face and man to man, then you will see with who you are dealing and I will see the man that is going to handle my goods."

The newspaper slip alluded to is enclosed in the envelope containing the letter and tells how "a counterfeiter goes free" and about "the country being flooded with $2,000,000.000.000 of counterfeit money in the past year, which is pronounced by government experts to be as good as the genuine greenback."

Again cautioning Mr. Curtis never to tse the mail, that gentleman is given as his number 1,203 and directed to send his telegrams to B. Gowdie, 286 West 116th street, New York city.

B. Gowdie, 286 West 116th street, New York city.

Of course this is the regulation green-goods business with slight variations and some improvements on the old way. No man who deals with "Gowdie" ever gets out of New York with a dollar of counterfeit money, and precious little of any other money that he may carry to any of the villages near the city, "Going to try 'em?" was asked Mr. Curtis. "Well, I guess not."

The Meeting in Greene Was Not a Very B

thusiastic One.

Greenesboro, Ga., May 30.—(Special)—
Last Saturday week the third party held a rally in Greenesboro, and although it had been widely advertised for more than a month, the gathering was a disappointment to the third party leaders. It was devoid of enthusiasm and was, in point of numbers, in striking contrast to their first rally. This clearly indicates that the interest and enthusiasm has reached its flood and that the reaction has set in.

Mr. Cobb, of Clayton county, was expected to address the meeting, but he failed to arrive, and Mr. J. L. Smith, a local orator, gave the meeting a talk. He advanced nothing new and aroused but faint applause and no enthusiasm. Of the number in the courthouse to hear the speaking, good judges and close observers put the third party sympathizers at from 125 to 150, and in this number Oglethorpe, Hancock and Taliaferro counties were repsented.

Resolutions were introduced condemning Governor Northen, lauding Statesman Post and re-affirming their fealty to the St. Louis platform.

It was evident from the gathering that the strength of the third party is waning in Greene. The first rally in April was considerably enthusiastic. That of Saturday was a fint affair. The speakers seemed to labor to arouse a cheer and the gudience.

the strength of the third party is waning in Greene. The first rally in April was considerably enthusiastic. That of Saturday was a flat affair. The speakers seemed to labor to arouse a cheer and the audience labored equally hard to get up enthusiasm enough to give it.

The highest estimate given to the third party has been that they would cast about three hundred white votes in the county. This number can be cut down one-third and will about strike it right. The democrats will number them two to one on the white vote.

THE STEPHENS HIGH SCHOOL CASE.

The Six Days' Institutes Begin in June The Commissioner in Columbia—The Georgia Road Refuses School Tax.

The state school commissioner decided sterday an appeal case which involved an important point, and one of very general application. It turns upon the right of a county school board to use its discretion in apportioning the school fund among different schools in a school district. The Stephens High school, of Crawford-rille, has received, heretofore, $500 a year from the school fund. That was the whole the smount allotted to that school disthe amount allotted to that school dis at the amount anotted to that school dis-tict. This year the county board of edu-ation saw fit to give $125 of this money to another school, taught by Mrs. Beazley. The management of the Stephens High school objected to this, and appealed from the decision of the county school board to the state school commissioner. He says the decision of the county school board to the state school commissioner. He says the law is very plain. It requires that there shall be at least one school in each district, and there may be more, if the board of aducation thinks the interests of education demand it. The matter is in the discretion of the local board, and the state school commissioner will not interfere.

Commissioner Bradwell went down to Columbia county Saturday to attend a pic-nic, gotten up by the teachers of Columbia

All the teachers were there with many of their pupils, and a great deal of enthusiasm for educational progress was manifested. Commissioner Bradwell delivered the address of the occasion.

The six Days' Institutes.

The law providing for teachers' institutes in each county on Saturdays, provided also for institutes to last one week, to be held at some time in the months of June, July or August. A large number will be held in June, and some of them will be very fine. The attendance of all the public school teachers of the county is required by law. The commissioner is arranging to concentrate the institutes for four counties at Athens. He has made arrangements for board at the Rock College pormal school at the rate of $2.50 a week. This is with the understanding that teachers will bring pillows and sheets.

Tax Executions Against Railroads.

Tax Executions Against Railroads.

The comptroller general is sending out county tax executions against the Central milroad, the Georgia Southern and Florida, the Atlanta and Florida, the Macon and Atlantic, the Macon and Birmingham, the Augusta, Gibson and Sandersville and the Marietta and North Georgia. All these roads are in the hands of receivers, and they have failed to pay the county tax required under the recent decision of the supreme court. The taxes cannot be collected from receivership roads without an order of court, but the comptroller general is complying with the law in issuing the executions. The executions are sent out to the county tax collectors, with instructions to confer with the county attorneys, and get them to apply to the judges for orders on the receivers for the railroad taxes.

The Georgia railroad has declined to pay the Richmond county school tax of 23 cents on the hundred dollars. This tax is levied on all property in Richmond county under the act of 1872, authorizing such a levy. When the railroad county tax act was passed in 1889, it provided a separate arrangement for taxing railroads by counties. The comptroller general was in some doubt, at first, whether he should include the railroads in the school levy, but Attorney General Anderson examined the question, and said the Richmond school tax was clearly a county tax, and the railroads would have it to pay. Since then the tax has been held up by the case in court. Now they decline to pay it, saying that they are under a separate arrangement. They also shiest to require a required to the county tax and the railroads would the required arrangement. Will Have a Public Bridge. Roswell, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—A meeting of the citizens of Cobb county is called to meet at Green's hall, in this place, on Friday evening at 7 o'clock. June 3d, to take steps toward purchasing the toll bridge across the Chattahoochee river on the line of Fulton and Cobb counties. This has been a long-felt want of the citizens of Cobb and Fulton counties, as a large amount of trade from this county crosses the river at this place to and from Atlanta. The people are inclined to buy Major Dunwoody's bridge. The bridge pays a large per cent on the investment. The people are enthusiastic at the prospect of a public bridge.

Abbeville, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Matt Grace, of Wilcox, a middle aged man, while returning from Bluff Creek church Sunday evening with his sister, was caught in a storm and frightened to death and was buried today.

The public is cautioned against fraudulent imitations and counterfeits of Dr. Pierce's medicines, which are sold at less than regular prices by dealers not authorized to sell the genuine medicines are sold only through druggists, authorized as agents, and always at these long-established prices:

The Vital Issue. Chairman Clarkson, of the republican national committee, when asked recently in regard to the platform to be adopted in Minneapolis, went on to give an outline of the declaration which he thought would be made by the convention. A part of what he said is extremely interesting to the people of the south.

"I do not know," said he, "that the Lodge federal election bill will be specifically endorsed, but I do know that a human right's plank of unquestioned vigor will be presented to the convention." Continuing Mr. Clarkson says:

"Did it ever occur to you that your child may live to see as many negroes in this country as there are white people today? Within the next three-quarters of a century I predict the colored population of this country will be at least 65,000,000. And does any one mean to tell me that they shall be denied the elective franchise guaranteed by the constitution? That is the next great issue to be fought over, and we might as well open our eyes to its magnitude."

As the negro is not deprived of the "elective franchise guaranteed by the constitution." Mr. Clarkson's interview, when reduced to its last analysis, means that the great issue to be fought over is, whether or not the federal government will consent to put the bayonet at the ballot boxes of the south, for the purpose of intimidating its voters, and allow the iblican party to attempt to accomplish by force and bloodshed what cannot be accomplished with a fair and free ballot.

The bayonet as a republican promoter, is the real issue and Mr. Clarkson goes to the gist of the whole business.

We may talk about tariff reform and red silver and remark with considerable emphasis that they are great and growing sues, or we may say that this one or that one is paramount. But it all amounts to nothing. The real issue between the two parties is one of sectionalism. That is the cat in the meal tub, or, to speak more pertinently to the facts, it is the nigger in the woodpile. We can't escape that particular issue; it is paramount and It seems to be permanent.

So far as the two parties are concerned. declamatory resolutions. The voters know instinctively what each represents, regardless of the issues that play about on the surface. The democratic party as it exists today is formed for the purpose of resisting federal aggression and opposing the spirit of sectionalism which appeals to the prejudices of the war and strives to turn the south over to an ignorant and irresponsible race led by corrupt

The white people of the south may as well get themselves in readiness for a renewal of the old and oft-repeated contest. Whatever the platforms of the two parties may say; whatever the names of the candidates may be, there will be but one issue-the southern issue, the sectional issue. Those of our friends who imagine that the campaign is to be fought out on the economic issues of the hour may as well lay aside their arguments and address themselves to the central and vital questions of the hour, namely: whether the time has come to surrender the south to the forces which stand ready to despoil her states and overthrow her

That is the issue and the whole of it. There may be a pleasing display of rhetorscal fireworks over the tariff, the silver question and the other issues that form the burden of off-year discussions, but it will amount to nothing. It will sparkle and go out and we shall find ourselves scrambling about in the embers of the war and fighting against the effects of the combined and harmonious effort of the republican forces to Africanize the south and to renew and complete the ruin begun during the reconstruction period.

'This issue is of more importance than all the rest put together. It is an issue that we cannot escape. It is all that holds the republican party together. The end and aim of its "war mission" is the spoliation and degradation of the south.
While the republican organization presents a formidable front the people here cannot afford to divide on any issue, for all issues are insignificant in comparison with this attempt to Africanize and despoll the states of the south.

State Banks--An Object Lesson.

In view of the renewed discussion of state banks, the recent experiment of Canada will prove interesting and instructive. It seems to point the way clearly to the means of attaining that elasticity the currency which is generally conhe May Forum, D. R. Wilkie, gen eral manager of the Imperial Bank of plan under the law of 1890, which went into effect on the 1st of July, 1891. The three points sought to be attained by the system were safety, convertibility and elasticity in the circulation. Repre-sentatives of all the banks of the dominion were invited to Ottawa by the minis-ter of finance to assist in framing the new law, and particular attention was paid to the suggestions or remonstrances of these experienced men.

Safety for the banknote circulation was secured by making the notes a first lien on the assets and a first lien on the double liability of share holders, and by requir ing every bank to deposit with the minis ter of finance, for an insurance fund, 5 per cent of its average circulation for the preceding year, to be held to pay the notes of insolvent banks, the government paying on these deposits 3 per cent per annum. As a further security all the banks may be assessed if necessary 1 per cent per annum on their average circulation to pay the notes of insolvent banks in case the insurance fund should be exhausted. These provisions certainly made the issues of Canadian banks safe Practically the associated credit of all the banks was intrenched behind each

As to convertibility, the law require the banks to provide for the redemption of their notes in cities in different parts of the country, from Halifax to Victoria This kent the circulation at par every where. Today the notes of the Bank of Nova Scotia in Halifax are accepted at par in British Columbia and the notes of banks in British Columbia pass current in the eastern provinces.

The law works equally well in the third particular, elasticity. Mr. Wilkie says the normal note circulation of Canada is $32,000,000 and the normal expansion in the harvest season is $7,000,000 or 23 per cent. The need for expansion of the circulation during the period when crops are moving is so well recognized in Can ada that the bankers were practically unanimous for it. The sequel shows their wisdom. "So successfully has the system worked that during the movement of crops in the autumn of 1891, with calls from all parts of the dominion for money and more money, the Canadian banks were not only able to supply all legitimate lemands without advancing the rate of interest by a fraction of 1 per cent, but were able also to increase the net foreign balances to their credit in Great Britain and the United States from $19,000,000 in August to $23,000,000 in December. and in addition, to lend very large amounts to the grain dealers of Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and other western grain centers." The president of the Winnipeg board of trade says that upwards of $3,000,000 was borrowed from Canadian financial nstitutions in 1891 by grain dealers in Minnesota and Dakota to help move the crops in those states.

The Canadian system furnishes an object lesson for the United States.

A Needed Crusade.

Our New England brethren have a very elastic standard of morality. When they apply it to southern affairs it is very narrow and very rigid, but when they use t at home it is very wide and all the time expanding.

A few months ago northern sentiment was worked up to a fine frenzy of virtuous indignation over the lottery evil. The lottery chanced to be in the south-in Louisiana. It was supposed that the concern attracted numerous dollars from patrons in the north. So the good people up that way flew into a rage over this and of for business men joined in the outcry, and urged the federal government to enforce the anti-lottery law strictly. When the issue was before the people of Louisiana mass meetings were held in Boston to encourage the anti-lottery men.

Well, the northern agitators had it all their own way in this instance, as in other instances when they have held mass meetings in Chickering hall and in Faneuil hall to attend to the business of their southern neighbors.

A few people down here in Dixie thought that possibly a wave of morality was sweeping over the north, and that gambling had received its death blow. They are mistaken. After the lottery was smashed, an anti-option bill was introduced in congress by ...r. Hatch. The object of the bill is simply to stop gambling in the exchanges and boards of trade. It purposes to restore the traffic in cotton and other agricultural products to its legitimate basis, by preventing gamblers from buying and selling millions of bales which will never be delivered, thus manipulating the markets to the injury of the producing classes. It is so framed that it will not interfere with actual business-with the men who are really buying and selling cotton-but it will stop the gamblers who are trying to get something for nothing, drawing capi-tal into their game of chance, and leaving the agricultural classes powerless to take care of their interests when the markets have been fixed up by the gamblers.

When it was known that such a bill was pending, the farmers of the west and south took it for granted that the north-ern enemies of the lottery would favor an anti-option law. But there will be no help from that source. This gambling in options and futures is infinitely more dangerous and destructive than the solitary lottery in Louisiana. It reaches out and directly and indirectly hurts hundreds of thousands of honest people who never gambled in their lives. Yet northern public senument sustains it. The business pays. It is the favorite occupation of Wall street, and all the plutocrats and well-to-do classes, and all the organs controlled by Wall street are denouncing the Hatch bill. The other day The New York Times opposed the bill, and now The World speaks out against it, and appeals to democratic congressmen to vote it down. The course of these two newspapers is inconsistent and dishonest. They joined in the movement to suppress the Louislana lottery, and yet they are the rampant the movement to suppress the Louisiana.

lottery, and yet they are the rampant defenders of gambling in Wall street—gambling in future crops—gambling in the toil and tears and poverty of the helpless farmers of the land!

If this shameless corruption can be checked in no other way, perhaps the people of the south and west had better record to the methods adopted by the northerners in their crusade against the lottery in Louisiana. Let us hold public meetings, and send out speakers and documents to work up a revival of p norality in the north. Let us send misdonaries to the benighted regions in the shadow of Wall street, and preach the gospel of honesty until we convince the people that they cannot fight gamblin n the south and defend it in the north. Let us not mince matters, but make these Wall street men and their dupes under stand that, whereas the lottery only ab sorbs the money of its voluntary custo mers, and spends millions of its revenue for the public good, the option and future gambling business is able, when there is not a hale of cotton in the market, to beat down prices to an extent that will drive the southern farmers to the verge of starvation!

The farmers are losing patience. They are not willing to be forced into poverty and serfdom by these speculative gam blers of the exchanges who fix the price of their crops by selling millions of dol lars worth of products not in existence. And there are millions of honest people everywhere who side with the farmers and demand the Hatch bill or a similar measure.

We do not expect to reach the Wall street organs, but looking beyond them to the mass of the northern people, we ask this question: Now, that you have smashed the gambling machine in the south which drew hundreds of thousands of dollars from the north, will you not complete your work by smashing the gambling machine in the north which draw millions of dollars from the south? Having destroyed the little monster at a distance, will you not destroy the big monster in your midst which is debauching your conscience, and turning your peopl into a community of gamblers?

GEORGIA POLITICAL NOTES.

Mr. I. N. Richardson has a ringing letter on the political situation in The Carrollton Times. He discusses the third party at length and sounds a note of warning to the farmers of Georgia. After paying his respects to the railroad, land and pension planks of the new party, he concludes as follows:

"The democrats defeated the force bill which if enacted into law would have been a ruination to the American government. Our demands can be had in and through the democratic party. Put her in power at our national seat of government and you will see it come. The third partyles seem to lay all blame on the democrats for the present condition of affairs, where they are and have been powerless for thirty years. Men think, before you leap, what the result might be!"

"L. Q. M.," in a letter to the editor of The Augusta Chronicle, from Washington, discussing the presidential race, says:

"Blaine is strong in New York, in Virginia and West Virginia—everywhere, in fact. In New York, especially, we shall have to fear and guard against the same trouble that nearly cost us the state in 1884, namely, a drift of a portion of the Irish vote to Mr. Blaine, both on personal and political grounds. Who can hold that vote against Blaine? Not Cleveland. They do not like him, nor can be rallied on the cry of "regular nomination" to one who has on two occasions lately tacitly encountered bolters. Hill could surely hold this vote, and I am not sure any one else could. I believe Gorman could do so, and probably Flower could. Who else is there who could hold New York against Blaine? I cannot turn with confidence to any others."

Mr. F. H. Richardson was the next speaker introduced. There was little occasion for him, he said, to say much as he saw, by looking over the programme, that a series of speeches by gentlemen of ability were to be delivered.

"I see here," he said, "the name of one gentleman who has risen to such a point in his profession that it now seems that the mantle of attorney general is about to fall upon him." This was received by long and continued applause.

SHABUOTH FESTIVAL

These festive fellows seem to have brought sunlight and gaiety and happiness with them, and since they marched, a conquer ing host, into this quaint and quiet spot, mirth and merry making have res along the valley a-down which flows the murmuring waters of the Big and the Lit-tle Sandy.

This was the opening day of the conver tion, but no business was done. The spirit of ease and pleasure taking ruled the day and came very near cutting off even the little speeches and other formalities incidental to opening day.

The surroundings were not such as would induce even the energetic and industrious drummer to activity. The broad sweeping verandas of the Wigwam, whose coo shades of the spreading oaks, ed trunks have stood guard for centuries upon this spot where nature holds high carnival, were too inviting and reposeful looking to give up for the dull and prosy

The special train which bore the Atlanta delegation left Atlanta at 8:30 o'clock this morning, and was composed of eight of the East Tennessee's handsomest coaches. Professor McAfee's band discoursed stiring music at the depot for an hour before the train's departure.

All the coaches were comfortably filled by one of the most select and orderly parties that ever left Atlanta. A number of ladies were aboard and the gallant drummers paid them every courteous attention possible.

An hour and a half was given the boys to rove about the place and take in their new surroundings before anything was done.

Called to Order.

At 11:45 o'clock President Townsend called the convention to order in the spacious ballroom of the Wigwam. The room was filled with delegates and visitors, a goodly sprinkling of ladies having seats on the floor. It was a fine looking audience and good humor prevailed.

President Townsend made a brief speech. He said that no pleasanter place than this could not have been found for the Southern Travelers' Association convention. It was a place where the boys could combine business with pleasure. He hoped that many friends of the drummers, who were present, would go away having a higher opinion of the drummer.

Bey J. R. King, of the Walker street would go away having a higher opinion of the drummer.

Rev. J. R. King, of the Walker street church, Atlanta, then offered the opening prayer, in the absence of Rev. T. M. Lowry.

The eloquent young Georgian, Hon. Marcus W. Beck, ex-senator of the twenty-sixth district, delivered the opening address and his effort was a particularly happy one.

"It affords me great delight," said he, "to welcome to what was recently the wilds of Butts county the men of commerce. Recently this was in truth the wilds of Butts county. A decade ago these rugged hills were climbed by drummers who were in pursuit of the lonely country merchant, who pursued the even tenor of his way, undisturbed by customers from May until September.

"In your insatiate love of conquest you have smoothed our highways that your legionaries might find a way to reach us. In the path of your victory, simple-minded content has fled. The small farmer, who was before content with his little farm, now aspires to larger domains. Our very hills became discontented. This hill, which is crowned with this splendid structure, was before content with a crown of scattered pines. We charge you with these innovations. Are you guilty? Your silence is a plea of guilty, and that you would dare to come here and enter a plea of guilty to such a charge is but one of the many evidences of a drummer's monumental cheek.

"The drummer is an apostle of happiness and light. Wherever he goes gladness follows, and success, too, goes hand in hand with him. They have brought men in closer contact with each other. They have introduced men to men and continent to continent.

"Your achievements are but of a century, but they are enough for ten. It gives me a deep feeling of pleasure to extend to you, the apostles of commerce, a welcome glowing with cordiality."

Mr. Clark Howell was down on the programme to respond to the address of welcome on behalf of the convention, but, on account of the serious illness of his little daughter, he was unable to be present, much to his regret. President Townsend read a telegram which Mr. C. I. Branan had just received from Mr. Howell, from

DECORATION DAY.

Gainesville, which stated that, while owing to the reason stated above, he could not be present, yet he was with them in spirit.

Mr. Townsend then announced that the response would be made by Mr. H. L. Lansdell, of Rome, one of the veteran members of the association. Mr. Lansdell's speech was a short but happy one and took the crowd. He said he had not been given sufficient notice that he was to speak to prepare an address. He made a few appropriate remarks in response to Senator Beck's welcome. He closed by telling a story, which he applied to Emil Frank, the jolly drummer.

GREAT CROWDS AT ANDERSONVILLE

National Cemetery at Marietta Thronged with People Garland-

Macon, Ga., May 30.-(Special.)-Anderonville, historic and beautiful, was crowded today, not less than 7,000 people ing on the grounds. The train left Macon this morning at 7:30 o'clock with three cars and baggage car loaded, with festoons and flowers attached. Ladies from nearly every state in the union were aboard. Here it might be well to point to the somewhat singular fact that among the visitors to Andersonville today were three members of the Grand Army of the Republic, who had been prisoners of war at Andersonville, and were all three released at the same time in 1864. On the arrival of the train at Anderonville it was announced that the exersises would not commence until half-past 12 o'clock, owing to the absence of the Hon. John Temple Graves, who was the orator of the day. The interval was spent in visits to the old stockade and stroll through the cemetery.

At 12:30 o'clock a telegram was received from Mr. Graves, stating that the engine on the Southwestern train had broken down and was delayed. The exercises commenced with the reading of the ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic, the decoration of the 13,000 graves and the firing of a salute over the grave of the late superintendent of the cemetery who is buried under the flagstaff.

Two hours were then devoted to dinner, and the boys enjoyed the magnificent fare that Mr. Collier had had prepared.

At haif-past 3 o'clock the music of the band called the delegation to the ballroom again, and after the convention had been called to order, 'a song was rendered by the association quartet, composed of Messrs. Brisben, Murphey, Stiff and Burbank.

It remained for an Atlanta speaker to deliver the annual address, which was the speech of the day—Hon. W. C. Glenn.

President Townsend introduced Mr. Glenn with many complimentary references.

Mr. Glenn spoke upon the problem of transportation, which, he said, he considered the problem of the day. All nations and all ages had their problems, and this was ours. He spoke from the legal side of the case, and made a masterly presentation of the case. His speech showed deep thought, and was presented in choice language. He said that Alex Stephens struck the keynote when he said "that where combination was possible, competition was impossible."

Mr. Glenn was followed by Colonel A. J. McBride in an excellent speech on the Southern Travelers' Association bank. The address was a purely business one, but it tive years the same hand has decorated that grave, and this year, for the first time, the aged mother accompanied her son to the resting place of her soldier

Hon. John Temple Graves St Just as the train moved out for Maco it was met by the Southwestern train with John Temple Graves on board, and at Fort Valley the railroad authorities consented to delay the train for a few minutes, the eloquent and talented speaker held his hearers in the pleasant spell which he knows so well how to cast bround an audience.

Mr. Graves's tribute to the soldier of the range was very eloquent and his plea for unoin and fraternity a splendid burst of oratory. The body of his oration was a discussion of the race question on new and startling lines and a powerful plea for statehood for the negro. Along this line he gaid in substance:

The Macon Delegation.

The Macon delegation arrived at 6 o'clock, and a fine-looking body of men it is. Each wore a pretty white badge with the name and number of the lodge, and all were smiling in anticipation of a happy time. They were given a royal welcome by their brothers who had preceded them.

The delegation was headed by the president, C. D. Winn; Secretary J. P. Lowe and Assistant Secretary Harry Miller. After twenty-seven years of freedom with the sympathy of the world and the whole power of the government at his back, there has been an utter failure to establish the negro in a self-reliant or satisfactory position. He has his right under the law, and his ballot, if discouraged by conditions and occasionally neutralized by diplomacy, is no longer intimidated by force, but enjoys none of the opportunities which are the heritage of ilberty. He holds no representative office and enjoys no station of trust or profit, north or south, commensurate with his numbers and intelligence. The professions are barred against him; the avenues of trade are blocked, politics has no promise and society no welcome. Whipped by circumstances, trodden under foot by iron and in-

The festive drummers were on hand in force, and they danced like veritable Ward McAllisters, all of them.

A more enjoyable affair could not be imagined. The traveling men realized that they were off from work for once, and they made the best of things.

Until a late hour the dancing went on, and the lively music floated down the valley of the Big Sandy.

Nearly all the drummers had their feet in the dance, and danced with just as much energy as they use in selling goods.

He Took the Case.

The speaking contest which occurred during the afternoon recess was one of the best features of the day. A number of drummers spoke, each one making a five-minute speech on his line of goods. Some funny speeches were made for the prize—a handsome gold-headed cane.

Charley Branan's talk took the cane. He talked like he does when out on the road selling goods and brought down the house.

Work of the Convention.

Tomorrow the convention will begin its work in real earnest. Today has been a day devoted wholly to pleasure and speaking, but tomorrow starts the wheels of the most important convention the association has ever held.

Many matters of vital importance to the drummers of the state are to be acted on between now and Friday. The most important matter that will come up will be the changing of the name of the Southern Travelers' Association. This change involves more than a mere change of names. It opens the way for shippers to come into the association and co-operate with the travelers' Association. This change involves more than a mere change of names. It opens the way for shippers to come into the association and will be the means of strengthening it wonderfully. It will enable both shippers and travelers to secure better rates—even the longed-for five-thousand-mile pass book, just like the boys want it.

This change is the work of Mr. Charley Branan to a great extent. He has been working upon it with that indefatigable energy characteristic of him and has been ably assisted by other large shippers.

Other matters of l slave's eyes at the barriers which imprison his advancement forever within the progress and the achievements of the dominant and superior race. History has no insurance, and precedent no comfort for him, if he remains in this country he must remain as an inferior, with continually decreasing influence.

The sooner he removes himself from the unequal competition with the Anglo-Saxon race, the sooner will his face, as a nation, be turned towards the morning. There is absolitely nothing for him in his present surroundings but infariority and servitude and decay. If there is ambition or aspiration in the negro he will plan, pray and prepare to go of his own notion to his fatherland or to some new country prepared for him by the government. There are many reasons in humanity and justice against his going to Africa now; untrained in government and unprepared for the change. The government that freed him and projected upon history the tremendous problem of his destiny, owes him a better opportunity than this. In the great west, in a latitude approximate to that in which he livestoday, there are millions of acres of vacant land waiting only the skill of science and the touch of industry to make them fertile and active. There, under the shadow of the flag and the protection of the government, let this ward of the nation be planted to develop his destiny, under our direction and restraint with the model of our states to guide, and the strong arm of the federal authority to restrain domestic dissensions and protect him from external aggression.

To give him a fair chance, let no white man vote or hold office in this negro state; but let every station, from supreme judge to coroner, be exclusive to the negro blood; and in a fair return for a country and a glorious opportunity, let the negro surrender his franchise in the other states, and so remove forever from our politics the core of the race question, which separates the south from the country, and compels its solidity and paralyzes its freedom of political movement and Upon arriving at the grounds choice musically was rendered, then the general order of General Logan, issued at Washington in 1868, commanding the observance of this day, was read. Prayer was offered by the chaplain; a beautiful poem, by Dr. Gravatof Atlanta, entitled "Kennesaw," was made by General J. R. Lewis, of Atlanta, and the orator of the day, General Henry Stea, of Boston, Mass., was introduced.

He began his speech by saying that was tempted, under the inspiration of a surroundings, to throw away his manuscript and speak without it, but he dared not a that.

and speak without it, but he dared not that.

His speech was quite lengthy, and cupied over an hour in its deliverance, showed a deep study of his theme, and noted more for its solidity than for rhetoric. He began by saying:

"Eight and twenty years ago, in compawith 100,000 other good and true American citizens, I tried, for four months, enter the city which now gives me its come. It then took us more months to it now takes hours, and our welcome with bloody hands to hospitable grave Surely, the changes wrought since that in are among the marvels of history. Nothin like it has ever been known. Today the is in our mother country a wider discontinuous d is in our mother country a wider ance between the descendants of the 250 years ago, were followers the king, and of Cromwell, the there is between those among us, withirty years ago, were in deadly strice one portion seeking to destroy, the other preserve that union under which alone these memorial exercises inspire, all feeling of animosity or anger fades away and in forgotten. We cannot, if we would, overlook the indisputable fact that the cause for which these men died was the cause of law, of order, of justice, of freedom, of peace. Whatever these who fought against us may have believed or intended the good cause triumphed when the confederate banner was forever folded away—to be flaunted no more in defiance of the host who stove only for liberty and union. The blessings which have followed that pence, which began at Appomattox, and which will not end till America is blotted out from among the nations of the earth, have been bestowed more fully and evidently upon those who mistakenly found against us than upon the victors in the great struggle. Everywhere this is manifest, and nowhere more than here in this very region, which has gone through the resurrection from death to life. Where else than in the new south is progress more visible? Let us rejoice at the fact, still more in the hope it inspires of greater blessings to follow."

After music, the graves were decorated, and at every other grave a small United States flag was planted.

After the decognation, the ladies went over to the confederate cemetery, and placed flowers upon the graves of the 3,000 heroes there sleeping in neglected graves.

At 12 o'clock the colored people carried out their part in the day's programme. these memorial exercises inspire, all of animosity or anger fades away forgotten. We cannot, if we would

GENERAL A. P. HILL'S MONUMENT. Its Unveiling at Richmond Yesterday-As

Immense Crowd Present. ond, Va., May 30.—The monume tory of General A. P. Hill, of co the memory of General A. P. Hill, of confederate fame, was unveiled here today with impressive ceremonies. The section of the city through which the procession passed which consisted of military and confederate veterans camps from various parts of the state, was partially decorated with national, state and confederate colors. The long line, which was about half an hour in passing a given point, was heartily cheered throughout the route. While the demonstration was not as large, by any means, as that on the occasion of the unveiling of the Lee monument, it was sufficient to make the event an enjoyable one to those who participated in it or had the pleasure of witnessing it.

In the city business generally was suspended. The streets along which the procession moved were filled with people, and as the line got beyond the corporate limits of the city vehicles of every description prowded the road leading to the monument.

The site is at the intersection of Hermitage road and Laburnum avenue, about a mile and a half from the city, overlooking the spot at which General Hill assumed command of his first brigade and subsequently of his light division and is in close proximity to the point at which, with that division, he the point at which, with that division, he brought on the "Seven Days" fight." It is also within less than a mile of the exposition grounds, famous during the war, as Camp Lee.

The state and local military preceded the veterans, who followed in this order:

The president of Pegram battalion and aids, and association, commander of the grand camp of confederate veterans' department of Virginia, and staff, eleven camps of confederate veterans from different parts of Virginia, the old Thirteenth Virginia infantry, ex-Confederate Soldiers' and Sailors' Association, Society of the Army and Navy of the Confederate States, Richmond Light Infantry Blues' Association, old First Virginia Regiment Association and R. E. Lee camp.

The city council in carriages followed in the rear of the evterans' organisations. The Hollywood Memorial Association, in carriages, in rear of the city council.

The column which moved at Li o'clock when Major Thomas A. Brander called the vast assemblage to order. Prayer was offered after which Rev. J. William Jones introduced the orator of the day, General James A. Walker, who succeeded Jackson in command of the Stonewall brigade. At the conclusion of General Walker's address, which was received with many signs of approval by the vast as dience, which frequently broke into uproarous applause, Miss Virginia Preston Meems, grand daughter of Colonel William P. Palmer, Hill's chief of staff, pulled the cord, and the likeness in bronze of General Ambrose Powell Hill was exposed to the gaze of the expectant thousands. A salute was fired by the infantry and artillery and the exercises closed amid a scene of great enthusiasm.

The principal oration was delivered by Colonel Charles Marshall, who was chief full meaning of this occasion. Men who were arrayed against each other in deadly strife

As a legislator Mr. Clay has made a grand record, and he is being now very prominently mentioned as the next state senator from the thirty-fifth senatorial district, which comprises Cobb, Clayton and Fulton counties. In law, Mr. Clay is proving as successful as he has proven himself in the halls of legislation.

Mr. Thomas Ledbetter, who was reported to have been struck in the head and robbed on Sunday night, wishes to have it stated that such a report was a mistake. He was not struck at all, nor was he arrested. He wishes this statement made to relieve those of his friends who might have read the report from any anylety on his behalf. any anxiety on his behalf.

The following lawyers from the Blue Ridge circuit were in attendance on the supreme court yesterday: Hon. Steve Clay, Judge C. D. Phillips, John E. Mozely, W. B. Power and Webster Blair.

The game of ball between the police captains and reporters will occur at Brisbine park tomorrow afternoon, and the park management is contemplating arranging some extra facilities for handling the immense crowds that are sure to go.

The two teams are practicing, and will be able to give professionals a few pointers in ball playing by tomorrow.

Captain Thompson's arm is somewhat sore from practicing and he has secured the assistance of Captain Moss, who will give the reporters some splendid inshooters, that will result in strike outs out of number. With him on his pilgrimage to the resting places of the federal soldiers the negro carried an abundant supply of l'quor. Of that liquor he drank freely and when well under the influence of it used his knife upon Dr. Gober and Mr. Charles Bradley, two of Marietta's best citizens, inflicting wounds which may have caused the death of one of the two. Mr. Bradley, by this time.

It seems from what can be gathered at Marietta that Drummond, another negro man and two negro girls were walking down a street as Dr. Gober approached. He had een to his dinner and was returning to his office. The negroes were taking up the larger part of the sidewalk and as Dr. Gober tried to pass, Drummond ran into him and knocked him off the sidewalk. The negroes laughed and with an oath Drummond said:

It was quickly ascertained that both Mr.

Bradley and Dr. Gober had been seriously hurt, and the people of Marietta became talk of lynching was freely indulged in, and, in less time than it took to start it, a crowd was ready to do the work.

The telegraph wire and the telephone wire brought the story to Atlanta, and the trouble was freely discussed. All the evening Atlanta was calling for

About 10 o'clock the electric lights went out, and then it was thought that the jail wauld be assaulted. The sheriff, who had been kept posted as to the rumors, had a guard around the jail, but, if the latest advices are to be believed, no conflict occurred. They were out for nearly two hours, and when they came back Marietta was quiet and smooth, so the telephone wires said. Every response to inquiries asserted that the negro was still in jail, and that no attempt would be made to molest

A great many were unable to find places on the train of account of the diligence of the train crew. WHAT WAS THAT'S DISCUSSED Afternoon-The Line of Pipe Out to the River.

That Austell earth at the corner of Edgewood avenue and Pryor street, is taking a fresh lease upon life. Land Company presented the city council with a map showing that Edgewood avenue was one of the longest straight streets in the city from Pryor street east.

But the harmony of that map was de-stroyed by the prominent manner in which the corner of the Austell building was made to trespass upon the street.

There was a marginal entry upon the map and that entry went this way.

"If the city mould buy about sixteen feet of that building on Pryor street running back to a straight line where it would cut the building on Exchange place that woul make Edgewood avenue a uniform width all the way through and greatly beautify the prettiest avenue in the city."
As they studied that map the member of the council read the marginal note and before the year was out a resolution was before the year was out a resolution was adopted providing that the city have that portion of the building condemned, pay for it, tear down that portion of the building and use the ground for street purposes. While the discussion, which lead to that concluing sion, was going on Mr. Joel Hurt assured the members of the finance committee and the general council that if the city did not have the money with which to pay the con-demnation he would furnish it provided it was paid back within the year.

it was paid back within the year.

The members of the council seemed to think that the value of property all around would be enhanced and believing Mr. Hurt's proposition to be a good one accepted it. Then assessors were appointed to give the triangular strip of land a vaule. That member of the board was Mr. W. J. Tanner, who declared that the strip of land was worth $20,000.

The great difference between the two written reports made the council hesitate. Then the matter was carried into the courts and the judicial element of Fulton was asked to decide the vaule of the strip of land. Since that time the city attorneys land. land. There was a short silence and then Mr. Turner asked:

YOUNG WOMAN'S PITIFUL STORY

Of Her Betrayal, of Her Flight from Her Home, and of Her Anxiety to Save Her Family.

A woman with a negro carrying a basket, in which there was a small baby, called upon Mrs. Brittan yesterday.

"It is the baby of a friend of mine," she said between her sobs—"a very dear friend—who died in Home last week. She left the little one with me to keep, telling me to do the best I could with it. The child's father the best I could with it. The child's father died of congestion four months ago, and there were no relatives. So it was but natural that the child should fall to me. I cannot keep it. "You are deliberately telling me what is untrure," Mrs. Brittan said, "and you know it. Now tell me the truth."

The woman looked up with a hurt expression on her face. Her eyes filled with tears.

"You do not think I would tell an untruth—a lie," the proud-looking woman, now completely humbled, said in a piteous tone.

"I will tell you the truth," she said finally, when she had somewhat recovered, "that is my child-mine. But I could not tell you so. I was afraid you wouldn't take it, and then it might have killed papa and brother, and they loved me so. I was the youngest child, the baby—the idol. The disgrace would have killed them."

The girl gave her name as Della West Lengley. She lived with her father and brothers in a happy home in the suburbs of Dallas, Tex. Her father was a master mechanic, and possessed a great deal of

She was the youngest child, and the only daughter of the family, and was petted by her father and brothers.

To hide her shame, the young girl left home six months ago to visit relatives in Georgia, and, since that time, she has been stopping in Rome with the family of one of the mrest prominent physicians of that city. During all that time, she kept up a regular correspondence with her father, and he never had the least suspicion of the truth. truth.

After she had told the true story Mrs. Brittan decided to report the matter to Chief Connolly and have the woman arrested. She went out to telephone and returning fifteen minutes later, she found the woman gone.

On the bed were the basket and the baby. Beside them was a great pile of baby garments, newly made, and a big bundle of material.

Pinned to the basket was a note directed to Mrs. Brittan, which read:

"I was afraid you would not take the baby, and I was compelled to give it up. Get it a good home. Mother."

The woman had disappeared, suddenly and mysteriously. No one could give a clue as to where she had gone.

Here's a tale of two cities, which may have a sequel in a short while.

Last night Chief Connolly received a telegram from one E. Shuegrue, which says:

"Get Clerk's registerant on Decatur street.

"Go to Clark's restaurant on Decatur street. Clark is passing off my boy as his own and gambling with him. Get him and send him here."

The telegram was very peremptory in tone, but gives no further details.

It is an interesting story, maybe, and the officers will see if the charges made by E. Shuegrue, of Birmingham are true, and what water of the clark the restaurateur has to make.

that 5,000 tickets will be sold before the gate opens.

The like has never before been seen in Atlanta and may never occur again. It is the opportunity of a life time to see such men as "Fatty" Harris, "Uncle Jimmie". Dunlay, Councilman Charley Northen, Bruce Crawford and Amos Baker trying to do like the other boys.

No player will be allowed to figure in the game who fails to tip the beam at 200 pounds and the heaviest weight that will ply between the bases, runs something over three hundred and fifty pounds.

The sides have not yet been arranged and the formation of the teams will not be made until the players assemble on the grounds.

Here is a list of the players: Colonel "Fatty" Harris, Jim Lynch, Terry Towns, Bill Lamb, Bruce Crawford, Charley Northen, Levi Nelson, John Prather, T. L. Bates, C. B. Johnson, Bill Sparks, Bob Pause, Harry McMillan, Dave Wylie, Amos Baker, John Calvin, Bill Mickleberry, J. B. Whitlay and J. H. Spillman.

The substitutes that will be on hand in case of an accident are Pegleg Williams, Jake Emmel, Bob Brazelton and Amos Fox.

Every player who makes a strike is required, by the rules of the game, to run to the first base or if it suits him better and he can save time by it, he has the privilege of rolling from one base to the other.

A keg of beer will be located at the third base, and the runner or the "roller" as the case may be who succeeds in getting to that remote point of the circuit will be allowed to refresh himself before making the home dash.

The players will be allowed to use umbrellas if they see fit, and lunch will be served between the innings.

A great time is in store for the crowd that goes out to see the game.

It begins at 4 o'clock promptly.

The price of the tickets is 25 cents—grand stand privileges 25 cents extra, and special seats in front $1.50.

Tickets will be on sale this morning at the following places: H. G. Kurt, Beermann & Silverman, W. C. Boggan, J. P. Buckalew, Dave Collis and the Jacobs Pharmacy Company.

People to Be Found in Atlanta's Breatest Building—Almost to the Skies Are Some of the Offices.

The busiest scene in this big, busy city of Atlanta these days is within the walls of the Equitable building.

This towering temple to the pluck and energy of the industrial new south is nearly completed, and with four electric elevators flying from cellar to the eighth story, but all livery fast filling offices, iron. crowded hallways, fast filling offices, iron stairways curving round and round—all blocked with office furniture, building material and the like, offer a scene of pro-ress rarely seen even in progressive At-It is hard to fancy what a long-felt need gates seems to have filled. There seems to be a rush for offices in the building and at the rate of twenty-five each day the rooms are filling up with occupants.

It is an intertesting study to make a tour of this giant building, taking a peep into all the varied lines of industrial pursuits to be found on its floors. One finds the dentist on opening one door busily en-gaged plugging teeth and the very next door, perhaps, takes him to a great rail-road's headquarters where scores of busy cold's headquarters where scores of busy clerks are poring over desks and typewrit-ers. There is the editor away up on the eighth story catching inspiration almost from the very skies; the insurance agent into tedious places; the architect with windows opening over the entire city of Atlanta offering a view of any model he may wish in the myriads of buildings reaching up below; the physician in consultaton with his patients; in fact it s a little world penned up within the spacious

Who Can Be Found There.

Among the most attractive of the dozens of beautiful offices already occupied can be found many people whom everybody knows.

Mr. Clarence Knowles has taken possession of his handsome rooms on the third foor, overlooking Edgewood avenue. He has six rooms, and has fitted them with splendid fixtures. There are few finer insurance offices in the country than his.

Mr. G. L. Norrman, architect, is in the eighth story, with a brilliantly lighted office, opening eastward.

The Georgia, Carolina and Northern ratical has splendid offices on the seventh foor, with all its general officers there.

The Atlanta and West Point has attractive headquarters on the same floor, occupying ten large rooms.

Perdue & Egleston, agents for the Equitable Insurance Company, are in delightful rooms on the second floor.

Among the doctors there are Dr. Nicolson, Dr. Louis Jones, Dr. C. H. Hichardson, Dr. Louis Jones, Dr. C. H. Hichardson, Dr. E. C. Moreland, and the dentists up to date are Dr. George Harris and Dr. John E. Wodward.

The Merchants' Retail Agency is arranging some nice rooms.

W. T. Downing, the architect, is in a fine place, as is also the firm of W. M. Goodrich & Co.

Harry Stockdell, with his Phoenix Insurance Company headquarters, is happily located in the fifth story, having offices where the westran breeze can fan his brow cool all summer, sweeping in from Pryor street.

Away up in the eighth story, and in the western angle of the building, is Dixie, the well-known industrial journal. Here, indeed, is the place for E-litors John Temple Graves and W. R. Martin. They can catch a glimpse of all Atlanta from their dizzy height, and Dixie ought to be brighter than ever now that the editors are located up among the rarified breezes of cerulean regions. Their offices may well be described with the expressive slang of the day—"out of sight."

On the third floor are the general offices.

E. P. Barnly is having a delightful office fitted up and furnished handsomely by the Beutell Manufacturing Company.

The Lowry Banking Company has the angle on the first floor between Pryor and Edgewood avenue. This will make a beautiful banking place. The Lowrys are sparing no expense in having their new bank well furnished and have given the contract to Andrews & Co., of Chicago. They have spent $15,000 in having splendid furniture secured.

The following lawyers are in the Equitable: Hamilton Douglas, Haygood, Lovett & Plyer, William H. Black, Samuel Barnett, John S. Candler and others.

It has heretofore been a custom with Atlanta real estate men to have nothing but ground floors, but the record is broken by H. C. Pendleton & Co., and Turner & McIntosh, who have taken rooms on the second floor.

Thus the Equitable, Atlanta's newest and greatest building, is fast filling up with professional men of every kind.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Lysterious Affair at Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Two Dead Bodies Found.

Two Dead Bodies Found.

Council Bluffs, Ia., May 30.—W. J. Jones, manager of the Sandwick, Ill., Manufacturing Company, who has been under the influence of liquor for several days, with a considerable sum of money on his person, was called from his wife's side just when he had reached home last night, the message stating that his presence was required at the Ogden house. That was the last seen of Jones until his body was found this morning in a dark street near the hotel. He had a bullet hole in his abdomen, and his skull had been crushed. A revolver was clutched in his hand, and he was still alive, though speechless.

clutched in his hand, and he was still alive, though speechless.

A block away, frozen to a blood-stained back, the dead body of one Jack Wade was discovered, with a pistol wound in his breast. Wade also had a revolver in his hand. The driver of the hack, Tom Crogan, has since been arrested, in company with a man named Maher. The indications are that the double tragedy occurred at the point where Wade's body was found, and that Jones's supposed corpse was dragged through the yard of a disreputable house with the intention of concealing it, when Jones recovered and showed fight. Maher, Wade tad Crogan are hard characters, and it is supposed that robbery was their motive.

It is proposed to test the validity of the contract between the present waterworks and the city and also the legality of the issuance of the bonds. The case will be heard June 20th before Judge Hutchins at Lawrenceville.

BUT MR JOEL HURT WON'T GIVE 'EM.

An Interesting Controversy Over the Washington and Capitol Ave-Lines—The Work Projected.

Washington street residents from Trinity avenue to old Jones street want electric cars every fifteen minutes.

But President Joel Hurt, of the Consolidated, says they can't have 'em. So the general council has been called upon to kill the mule that pulls the car over that portion of the beautifully shaded street which wears the same of the historic cherry tree cutter.

The council, however, seems slow about

A long time ago, electrically measured, the Consolidated company asked the gen-

the Consolidated company asked the general council for permission to electrically equip the Alabama and Washington streets and Capitol avenue line. With the petition, however, was a request to change the route somewhat.

When the Georgia mule began pulling street cars through that section of the city some twenty-seven years ago, he began his slow trot at Whitehall and quickly learned every inch of the ground along Alabama, Loyd, Waverly and Washington to old Jones street, near Woodward avenue, over which he galloped to Capitol avenue. So long had the mule trotted that route that the people on those thoroughfares began to think that he was their's.

From mule power to greased lightning is a big change and when Mr. Hurt started the change he decided to leave Washington street at Trinity avenue—old Peters—and to reach Capitol avenue in that way. That would of course leave Washington from old Peters to Jones and Jones from Washington to Capitol avenue without a carsomething which they had been enjoying for nearly a quarter of a century.

The people kicked and they kicked hard, too.

Them Mr. Hurt, whose reservoir of

Then Mr. Hurt, whose reservoir of thought and design appears inexhaustable, began studying. Finally he proposed to retain the old line and equip it with electricity and to build the new line, too.

"We will run the cars out Washington street," said Mr. Hurt to the committee, "over the same route the mules travel now. Then as we come in from the other end we will come down Capitol avenue by Woodward avenue to Trinity or old Peters. Then we'll come up Trinity to Wash-

now. Then as we come in from the other end we will come down Capitol avenue by Woodward avenue to Trinity or old Peters. Then we'll come up Trinity to Washington, and back into the city.

The electrical committee thought Mr. Hurt had solved the question, and made a favorable report to the council, and the council adopted the report.

That was last year, and Mr. Middlebrooks, Mr. Hendrix and Mr. Hulsey were then the electrical committee.

Since that time Mr. Hurt has made the necessary outlay of money, and has begun making the change. But the whole matter is now back before the general council, and it may become a long war.

It seems that the residents along Washington street, between Trinity and Jones, have been figuring on the frequency of cars over that portion of the street, and have ascertained that they will be thirty minutes apart. That's too slow for them, and, recently, they petitioned the council for the adoption of a law requiring the Consolidated to give them fifteen-minute cars. The petiton, of course, went to the electric light committee, composed of Mr. Turner, Mr. Murphey and Ar. Stephens, and that committee met yesterday afternoon to hear from the parties interested in the controversy. Besides Mr. Turner and Mr. Murphey, of the committee; Mr. Rice and Mr. Sawtell, of the committee; Mr. Rice and Mr. Sawtell, of the committee; Mr. Rice and Mr. Sawtell, of the committee; Mr. Rice and Mr. Martin, Mr. Sanders, Judge Hillyer, Mr. Jake Haas. Mr. Joel Hurt and Judge Palmer were present.

Mr. Hurt recounted what had been done last year, and declared that his company would not have made the outlay of money had it been known that trouble would arise.

"We will have a fifteen-minute schedule," said he, "on the line, but it won't pass that portion of the street these gentlemen represent but every thirty minutes. The cars will go out the street every fifteen minutes one way, and come back every fifteen minutes the other way. That's the best we can do."

one way, and come back every fifteen minutes the other way. That's the best we can do."

Judge Hillyer, who has been walking from his home to the car on Washington street, one block, for twenty years, had been cultivating a happy smile since the line was projected by his house. But that smile took on a tinge of sadness when he observed that the rapidity of cars on Washington street was liable to rob him of even an occasional car. The judge, when Mr. Hurt said he could not give Washington street a fifteen-minute schedule and use Trinity too, protested.

Mr. Oglesby asserted that the residents who were petitioning had a mule car every fifteen minutes, and that they were certainly entitled to as much when electricity was put on. Mr. Oglesby declared that no one objected to Trinity avenue having a car, or as many as the road gave them; but he felt sure that Washington street and Woodward avenue should have at least the fifteen-minute schedule which they have always had. Mr. Oglesby denied that the people along the street have ever consented to the arrangement, knowing that they would be served with a half-hopr schedule. The gentleman made out an excellent, strong case from his standpoint.

Mr. Hurt declared that the road could not do more than he proposed.

"We'll have to leave you the mules," said he. "Will that suit you?"

Judge Hammond answered that it would. "No," said Mr. Oglesby and Mr. Martin in a breath.

"Give us the street," said Judge Hammond, "and we'll build our own road."

"Tim not here," replied Mr. Hurt, "to give up any of my rights."

"I don't think Mr. Hurt," said Mr. Dodd, "should put us under the punishment of those short-tail, bobtail, blind mules, when he gives other parts of the town cars that go swishing by."

Colonel N. J. Hammond argued for Mr. Hurt, and the committee took the matter under consideration. A conclusion will be

A committee representing New York, Philadelphia and London capitalists has submitted a new plan of reorganization for the Marietta and North Georgia railroad. The plan provides for the issue of new first mortgage fifty year 5 per cent bonds for $3,500,000, a second 5 per cent mortgage for $4,000,000 (interest to 1897 payable in incomes), income bonds for $1,500,000 and $11,500,000 of stock, of which $3,500,000 is preferred. The old consol sixes of 1887 are offered the new seconds for their principal, the incomes for the unpaid matured coupons, and the privileges of subscribing to the new first at 65. The proceeds from the sale of $2,600,000 of the firsts will be used to retire the $1,389,000 prior lien bonds of 1881, to settle receiver's debts and provide for betterments and improvements. Deposits under the plan may be made with the Atlanta Trust Company.

The committee consists of Messrs, H. A. V. Post, of Post, Martin & Co., Thomas Carmichael, of Dent, Palmer & Co., London; Wester Stanton, of Coffin & Stanton, New York; E. E. Demiston, of E. W. Clark & Co., Philadelphia, and Newman Erb.

Crops Need Rain.

St. Mary's, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—
This has been, so far, the worst year on the farmers that has been experienced for years. The corn crop will be a failure unless we have some rain soon. It is the dryest time we have had for years. Peaches, though, seem to hold their own very well, though it is quite probable that, unless we have rain soon, they will all drop off. I met a gentleman the other day who was going to drive some oxen one mile to the nearest water.

The second edition of Dr. Scott's "Historic The second edition of Dr. Scott's "Historic Eras" is now on the market. It has had a remarkable sale. We append some brief notices from leading scholars and literateurs. Joel Chandler Harris says: "As a contribution to pure literature Dr. Scott's 'Historic Eras' has a peculiar significance at this time. It is not a return to the dull model of our youth. The style and matter are thoroughly infused with the modern spirit. Both wise and witty thoughts take the place of the restlessness which too frequently mark contemporary works."

A Correction.

In our notice of the auction sale on South Pryor, which occurs today at 11 o'clock, we stated that the piece between the Surgical Institute and new Telephone Exchange building was 40x120 to an alley, which should have been 40x121 without an alley. We make this correction for fear there may be some misunderstanding at the sale, as this is a very valuable plece of central business property, and there will no doubt be a large crowd in attendance. The Alaska

Refrigerator.

FACTS WORTH CONSIDERING

The qualities sought for in the refrigerator are Preservation of Perishable Food and an Economical Use of Ice.

The economical use of ice depends entirely upon the principle involved, the construction of the Refrigerator, and in utilizing all the cold air.

Dry atmosphere and uniform temperature can be obtained only by a perfect circulation of the air in the Refrigerator, and its condensation in the Ice chamber.

The Alaska is constructed upon strictly scientific principles, by which low temperature and dryness of air are naturally and inevitably obtained.

The Alaska possesses a provision chamber free from odor.

The Alaska produces better results with less ice than any other refrigerator.

The Alaska is a dry-air refrigerator, and the best one ever patented.

The Chattanooga Southern Has Gone Beyond Redemption,

AND WILL BE AUCTIONED AT OUTCRY.

A Well-Known Factory Also in Pretty Deep Water-What Was Done at the United States Court.

The Chattanooga Southern railroad is to be sold before the courthouse door in Atanta at public outcry.

This was decreed by the United States court here yesterday, and a very important case is thus terminated. The case is that of the Central Trust Company, of New York, and Elias Summerfield vs. the Chattanooga Southern rail-

A decree was taken yesterday to sell the railway with all its belongings. The road has been in the hands of a receiver for some time. It had given a mortgage and deed of trust to the Central Trust Company, as trustee, for the sum of $1,440,000 issued by the railway company.

The decree of the court stipulates that the road shall be sold before the courthouse door, in Atlanta, by General Joseph W. Burke, who is appointed as special commissioner to conduct the sale of the property.

erty.

General Burke lives in Alabama, and has been reveiver of the road since it became entangled in the courts.

This will be a notable sale, and one that will invite the careful notice of capitalists. The Chattanooga Southern is a well-known railroad in this part of the southern states.

A Factory in Trouble. A final decree was made yesterday in the case of J. J. Robinson, trustee, vs. the Alabama and Georgia Manufacturing Com-decree is for the complainant, and is pany.

The decree is for the complainant, and is for $65,000 principal, with interest and cost. It comes about with the foreclosure of mortgage bonds, and the decree provides that the several sums of money recovered be paid on or before July 1, 1892.

In case of default, the decree further provides that A. E. Buck, marshal, shall proceed to sell, at public outery, on the first Tuesday in September, 1892, before the courthouse door, in Atlanta, the factory, machinery and all improvements in Harris county, together with the land near West Point, Ga.

This factory is a well-known and largely patronized industry. It has always done a driving business.

A Blind Tiger Caught. The only business that turned up in the office of the United States marshal yesterday was the capture and trial of Bud Knight, who has been charged with selling whisky without license at "Tight Squeeze," on Peachtree extension.

The blind tiger was taken to court and on Feachtree extension.

The blind tiger was taken to court and tried, and was bound over. The officers are making a desperate effort to keep down these blind tigers that are covered in their dens on the suburbs of Atlanta defiant of

There was but little business in the United States court yesterday.

Nearly all of the chief officers went to Marietta to witness the decoration of the soldiers' graves, and it was a kind of holiday at the custom house.

The postoffice was closed, and many of the offices were vacant. The men who went to Marietta report a grand time in the historic national cemetery of that city.

W. Goode & Co. Colonel Winter and family will, no doubt, keenly appreciate the presence of their friends at the sale, whether they are bidders or not, and no doubt the attendance will be very large. The property is very attractive. The residence is large and has every convenience, and is in thorough repair. The lot is one of the very choicest on the street, on account of its central location, its front on the widest portion of Peachtree, its great elevation, beautiful shade, grass and terraces, and because it has a double front, the rear on Cedar street being specially valuable for brick flats or separate framed dwellings. The terms of sale are exceedingly liberal, and this gives many a purchaser an opportunity to buy who otherwise would be excluded. A great many young men in Atlanta are making money rapidly, and they are thoughtful enough to secure a home on this fashionable street before the price goes beyond their reach.

Who Will Buy the Peachtree Home?

Peachtree Street Auction Sale Tomorro

Who Will Buy the Peachtree Home? The Winter place, No. 368 Peachtree, to be sold at 4:30 o'clock p. m. tomorrow, June 1st, brings up the question. It is, indeed, a desirable home, and the terms of sale are very liberal. Plats can be had at Sam'l W. Goode & Co.'s office.

Do You Admire John Chinaman's Complexion?

Probably not. Even were John's eyes not cut on a bias and his nose broad in the beam, his tint would stamp Mm as the reverse of beautiful. Yet a white man with the jaundice is of the same hue, only more pronounced. Billousness, with its symptoms of furred tongue, yellowish skin and eyeballs, pains in the right side, sick headaches, vertico, must, if unchecked, culminate in jaundice and congestion of the liver. Remedy this trouble and remove its attendant symptoms, dyspepsia and constipation with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which also cures malaria, rheumatic and kidney troubles.

rheumatic and kidney troubles.

Value of Peachtres Lota.

Mr. Hugh Inman has been quoted as saying that "every lot on Peachtree to the limits would be worth $500 per front foot." Messrs. Samuel W. Goode & Co. made an average of six lots from Kimball street back to Cain street, embracing the highest and lowest prices offered and paid for lots this year, and they show the average to be $225.75 per front foot, with the average depth of 200 feet. The Winter lot, to be sold tomorrow, is above the average in many respects, such as elevation, shade, location and an extra and valuable front on Cedar street, and it becomes an interesting question to know how it will be estimated by active bidders.

Money for Beds.

An imposing three-story brick building off the line of the Decatur dummy surprises the passer-by when he is told that it is the colored orphans' home, erected by the efforts of Carrie Steele, whose good works have been so often mentioned by The Constitution. The building is at last completed, and Carrie is preparing for the dedication. First, she says, it must be furnished, and she is raising money to buy twenty-five beds. They will cost $6 each, and she has a good part of the money already. The following gentlemen have contributed: R. J. Lowry, $5: Dr. J. S. Todd, $20: Mr. L. B. Nelson, $12; Mr. E. C. Kontz, $6; Mr. A. L. Kontz, $5; Mr. George Muse, $6, and Mr. Joel Chandler Harris, $6.

It will take about one hundred dollars more to buy the beds, and Carrie will, doubtless, secure it in a few days.

In addition to the above, Messrs. Phillips & Crew have contributed an organ, and some ladies have promised a carpet.
